MODEL TEXT نص نموذجي

Plastic pollution has become a serious environmental problem in many Moroccan towns and beaches. This essay examines its main causes and suggests some solutions.

The problem has several causes. First, many people still use single-use bottles and packaging. Second, some areas lack enough bins and recycling centres. As a result, plastic ends up in rivers and the sea.

Fortunately, there are solutions. The government could support recycling companies and make producers responsible for their packaging. Schools could organise awareness campaigns, and citizens could choose reusable bottles and bags.

In conclusion, plastic pollution can be reduced if authorities, companies and citizens work together.
