MODEL TEXT نص نموذجي

The henna party is one of the most beautiful traditions in Moroccan weddings. It usually takes place two days before the wedding, at the bride's house, and only women are invited.

As soon as you enter, you can hear traditional songs and the joyful sound of "zgharit". The air smells of incense and orange blossom. The bride, dressed in a green caftan, sits on a decorated chair while a "neqqacha" draws delicate patterns on her hands and feet.

For me, this celebration is special because it brings families together and keeps our heritage alive. Each time I attend one, I feel proud of our culture.
